DETAILED ACTION

Amendment

1. Receipt is acknowledged of the amendment filed 27 February 2007.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, 11, 21, and 31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Maier (U.S. Patent Application Publication No. 2005/0251596) in view of Tello (U.S. Patent No. 6,463,537).

Regarding claims 1, 11, 21, and 31, Maier teaches an integrated circuit for a smart card comprising a transceiver and a processor (smart card) for communication with a host (personal computer PC) via the transceiver and performing a plurality of smart card applications, said processor for cooperating with the host device to perform an enumeration (ENUM1) based upon at least one default descriptor (descriptors I) (see Figure 1, paragraphs 38-44).

Although Maier teaches of an active memory to which drivers are loaded, Maier fails to teach the step of generating a look-up table for allocating data to respective smart card applications based on the enumeration, and detecting a system event, and responsive to the system event, cooperating with the host device to perform a new enumeration based upon at least one alternate descriptor and generating a new look-up table thereon.

Tello teaches a computer security system which utilizes an encrypted table of smart card code numbers are also stored in the flash memory of the security engine. This table is used during the operation of the invention to identify the purpose and type of smart card inserted in the smart card reader which is logically connected to the security engine (see col 9, lines 26-31). Hence, Tello teaches the use of a look-up table which stores smart card information during smart card processes.

In view of the teaching of Tello, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ a look-up table, and subsequent look-up tables because it is favorable to be able to obtain information and be able to access it at a later time.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 2-10, 12-20, 22-30, and 32-38 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

4. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The best prior art of record fails to specifically teach the subsequent steps of the data placement in the look-up table (i.e. applications with their associated endpoints, and alternate descriptors in the form of device, configuration or interface descriptors).

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 27 February 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

6. In response to applicant's arguments that the combination of Maier and Tello do not teach the present invention as claimed, examiner respectfully disagrees and submits that Maier teaches the integrated circuit basis for the invention, and Tello teaches the deficiency of Maier, which is the generation of the look-up table. It is favorable to combine these references since they both teach of utilizing smart cards for obtaining and using data.

In response to applicant's argument that the "encrypted table of smart card code numbers" of Tello is not a look-up table for allocating data to respective smart card applications, examiner disagrees and respectfully submits that, as claimed, Tello does indeed teach the look-up table since Tello teaches that smart card code numbers are stored in a table that is able to be accessed (i.e. looked up) during the operation of the invention to identify the purpose and type of smart card inserted into the smart card reader. It is respectfully submitted that in Tello, the enumeration occurs when the smart card is inserted into the smart card reader, which calls up (i.e. generates) the look-up table.

Conclusion

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
